

Calvin was a somewhat careless boy, who got easily distracted, to the point of forgetting that he had to go to school, completely oblivious that it was Monday, thinking it was still the weekend. His angry mother, being aware that there were only 10 minutes left for his transportation to pass by, sends poor Calvin to school.

Calvin hurries to his bus stop where he encounters Violeta, the girl who caught his attention. Immediately, Calvin wanted to get her attention and was captivated by her beauty, so he overlooked the fact that he had forgotten his lunch at home. When he reacts and realizes he doesn't have his lunch, he runs back home to retrieve it.

At the same moment, his mother also becomes aware of the situation and rushes to the bus stop to bring his lunch, but with such bad luck, Calvin had already returned when she arrived. Violeta informs her that Calvin had already come back. His mother, immediately returning home in anger, meets Calvin, but his bus had already left. His mother, furious, proceeds to take Calvin to school in her car.

Calvin manages to arrive at his school just in time and immediately encounters Violeta at the lockers, continuing to engage in a conversation with her. Therefore, his mother returns home with much anger, but calm because Calvin is at school and with his lunch. But as expected of Calvin, he remembers that he left his math book at home. When his mom notices the book, she immediately explodes in anger, shouting "Calviuuuuuu!"
